

Funds for Aid Of Near East Spent for Wine

Allied Officers Guests at
Champagne Dinners, Says
Witness at Trial of Six
Americans for Fraud

Turkish Dancers Present

Also Said Quantity of Flour Was Traded for
Six Carloads of Whisky

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3. (By The Associated Press).—Details of alleged thefts from the Near East Relief by officers and employees have been brought out in hearings here of six Americans charged with having defrauded the organization.

Davis, one of the defendants, testified Tuesday that Lieutenant Colonel Coombs, director of the Near East Relief, visited him in prison and promised him immunity if he would "tell all he knew about those higher up who were trying to get him (Coombs)." Davis also testified that F. W. Macallan, a member of the executive committee of the Near East Relief, had visited him in prison and given him a message from Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the organization, that he (Vickrey) was sorry Davis was in such a position. Mr. Vickrey was at the time in Switzerland, the defendant testified.

Admission was made on the witness stand by Lieutenant Colonel Coombs that many expensive dinners to high Allied officers had been given with money belonging to the Near East Relief. He declared the arrangements were made by Davis, and that champagne and wines figured in the menus. One bill for a dinner last July amounted to $250. At this affair there were Russian singers and Turkish dancers.

Lieutenant Colonel Coombs denied any knowledge of the trading at Batum last fall of a quantity of flour for two carloads of whisky. He said that Batum was outside his jurisdiction.

Witnesses Full Investigation
The defense for the prisoners rested its case today, after having called as witnesses W. W. Peet, chairman of the administrative committee; H. M. Day, president of the American Foreign Trade Corporation, and other persons. The argument of the defense was that the affairs of the committee had been so conducted that it was impossible to prove the alleged charges.

Mr. Peet said the Near East committee had nothing to fear from an investigation and welcomed information in an attempt to show dishonesty. Questioned by Julian Gillespie, a former captain in the United States Army, counsel for the accused, Mr. Peet denied having knowledge that parts of a shipload of merchandise to the American Foreign Trade Corporation in July, 1919, did not pay customs to the Turks.

Macallan denied knowledge that for a three days conference at the end of August for fifty-three relief workers, held in Robert Collier, the cost of automobiles was more than $1,200. He said he knew however, that the meals were supplied by expensive hotel caterers.

Discharged for Dishonesty
Coombs said that two employees in a bakery which furnished bread for the poor, had been discharged for dishonesty in their accounts. He explained the sale of merchandise valued at $850,000 to the American Foreign Trade Corporation was arranged by Major Arnold, his predecessor, who, he said, probably had this merchandise on hand as a result of bad judgment on the part of the American Foreign Trade Corporation regarding requirements. This sale, he added, was mostly in the nature of an exchange for goods which the American Foreign Trade Corporation had in its possession and which were of more use to the committee.

Says Invention Will Make Heat And Light Free

Seattle Youth Comes Here
With Patents for Device
Said to Generate Power
From the Atmosphere

Reports Successful Tests

Asserts Dynamo, Weighing Less Than 40 Lbs., Will Revolutionize All Industry

Armed with the patents covering an invention which he believes will revolutionize industry and have a far-reaching effect on the social and commercial activities of mankind, Edward M. Hubbard, an eighteen-year-old electrical wizard of Seattle, Wash., is in New York arranging for the manufacture of machines incorporating the principle of his invention.

Mr. Hubbard's electric coil, which is said to create energy without the consumption of anything tangible, has attracted wide attention on the Pacific Coast, where it has been subjected to a series of public tests. Scientific circles have been unable to determine the source of the power developed by Hubbard's method. The device has become known as an "atmospheric generator."

When seen last night at the Claridge, where he is stopping with his bride, Mr. Hubbard declined to identify the interests forming a company to manufacture the dynamos, but said it is anticipated that they will be on the market within a year.

Weights Less Than Forty Pounds
The extent to which the newly discovered principle will influence the activities of society, if it proves as successful as it has been pronounced by those scientists who have witnessed its tests, may be imagined when it is known that Mr. Hubbard expects to market a dynamo weighing less than forty pounds which will generate sufficient current to heat and light an ordinary-sized house, in addition to furnishing the heat for cooking the meals of an average family.

As Mr. Hubbard explained the device, its operation will be without cost after the initial price of installation. It requires no fuel whatever, he said, and should be usable for an indefinite period.

Production at Moderate Price

The youthful inventor, who discussed his device reluctantly, intends to see that it is produced at a price that will place it within the reach of all. He is proceeding carefully, he said, with a full knowledge of the responsibility that attends the revolutionary influences his adoption will exert on social, industrial and commercial activities. It is Mr. Hubbard's wish, it appeared from his conversation, that persons with money invested in any of the activities which may be displaced by his invention come into general use shall have ample opportunity to protect their interests. With this end in view, he has invited and received the cooperation, he said, of the heads of many lighting and heating plants throughout the country.

Newark Unveils Memorial to

K. of C. Who Fought in War
Ten thousand persons yesterday witnessed the unveiling of a tablet in honor of the 483 Knights of Columbus in Newark who took part in the World War. Uses Electricity in Air For Dynamic Current ROME, Oct. 3.—Discovery by Gustavo Leutner, a widely known engineer, of a system by which static electricity in the atmosphere may be transformed into dynamic current is announced in the newspaper Epoca. The apparatus, according to the newspaper, consists of antennae bearing a radioactive collector joined to a special transformer, which is acted upon by the radioactive matter which is not as yet explained. Experiments conducted have been successful, it is said, and a larger apparatus is being constructed.

French Inventor Here With Photo-Telegraph

Arrives on Kaiserin Auguste
Victoria, Which Reaches
Port Ahead of Time

The Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, of the Cunard Line, which was expected to arrive this morning, loomed up suddenly off Sandy Hook yesterday and landed passengers at the company's pier at 5 p. m. Her officers said she encountered unusually good weather and easterly winds throughout her run across and she assisted her in making her time across the Atlantic than was expected.

Among the saloon passengers was Edouard Belin, a French inventor, who came here to demonstrate his invention for transmitting photographs by wire. He said the mechanism is perfected and that he will be able to give practical demonstrations of photo transmission from long distances.

He said that an electric needle is placed over the photograph to be transmitted and as it moves over the photograph a duplicate of the print is reproduced on the other end of the wire. The instruments were held by the Customs officials and sent to the public stores for appraisal.

Among others on the Kaiserin were L. H. N. Muller, of the Pacific Railroad's steamship service, and Kumagae, the Japanese tennis player.

Rabbi Wise Says Schiff

Was One of Greatest Jews

Praises the Late Financier for

Adherence to the Principles of His Religion

The character and life achievements of the late Jacob Schiff, president of the Free Synagogue yesterday by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise. He pictured him as one of the greatest Jews that ever lived.

In part he said: "Mr. Schiff was not only a good, high-minded and great Jew, but he was great as a Jew, because he thought, felt and acted as a Jew. He was not like many who are merely born Jews, and unhappily so, apparently, but he was a great Jew who would have perished sooner than do what so much of the world's Jewry is doing to-day, namely, flinging themselves and their children into Fifth Avenue baptismal fonts."

Believe Schiff would have gone to the last gasp rather than to crawl into the back door of some Fifth Avenue club thus, suffering himself to be endured in certain social circles.

Pastors Pay Tributes To Ex-Senator Crane

Harding and Many Others Send Messages of Condolence to Family in Dalton

DALTON, Mass., Oct. 3.—Church attendants in Dalton and nearby Pittsfield to-day heard pulpits tributes to the memory of former Senator W. Murray Crane, who died yesterday, while from all quarters of the land messages of condolence continued to stream in.

Mr. Crane and his family have worshipped, the Rev. Ralph M. Timberlake spoke with deep feeling of his personal association with the former Senator and of the latter's many philanthropies and his general relation as a brother to the entire community.

Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge were among those who sent telegrams of condolence. Other messages were from Mr. and Mrs. Knox, Senators Penrose, Smoot and Warren, former Senators Frank P. Flint, of California; John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts; Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, and George Peabody Wetmore, of Rhode Island; former Governor John L. Bates of Massachusetts, who is to one of the honorary bearers at the funeral service to-morrow; Colonel George Harvey, Charles F. Brooks, of Connecticut; Colonel E. M. House, Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee; Representative William B. McKinley, of Illinois; Representative William S. Greene, of Massachusetts; former Justice Charles E. Hughes, Franklin K. Lane, Myron T. Herrick, of Ohio; Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, President Harry A. Garfield of Williams College; Henry F. Davison, Edwin M. Buckley, General Charles H. Sherrill, Henry B. Thayer, Dwight W. Morrow, Charles D. Hilles, T. Coleman du Pont, Thomas W. Lamont and Frank A. Munsey.

Another traveler on the France was the Rev. James R. Curry, rector of the Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Name in this city, who had been on a visit to Ireland. He expressed deep sympathy for the Sinn Feiners and their cause.

Among others on the France were Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, who is a student of medicine in the University of Paris; Peter, Swiss Minister to Washington; R. M. Haan, owner of the St. Regis Hotel; Duncan Harris, Maurice Thompson, Titta Ruffo, the Italian barytone, who will sing with the Glee Club; Commander Henry Danel, a French engineer; H. B. Baruch, A. K. Macomber and George W. Bates.

The France was held up fifteen hours in Havre because of a strike of dockers who demanded an increase of fifty francs additional monthly pay. Their demands were granted by the French Line.

Mr. Niles fought by her husband's side all through the war, and when he was wounded at the battle of Bull Run paused a moment to stanch the flow of blood from his leg. Her identity was still unrecognized when she was mustered out of service at the time of the surrender of General Lee.

Mr. Niles returned to Raritan after the war, and every year the highest honor the town could give was accorded to her.
